1. RATIONALE
1.1	ICT in the 21st Century is seen as an essential resource to support learning and teaching, as well as playing an important role in the everyday lives of children, young people and adults. Consequently, schools need to build in the use of these technologies in order to arm our young people with the skills to access life-long learning and employment.
1.2	Information and Communications Technology covers a wide range of resources including; web-based and mobile learning. It is also important to recognise the constant and fast paced evolution of ICT within our society as a whole. Currently the internet technologies children and young people are using both inside and outside of the classroom include but are not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Websites ● Apps ● E-mail, Instant Messaging and chat rooms ● Social Media, including Facebook and Twitter ● Mobile/ Smart phones with text, video and/ or web functionality ● Other mobile devices including tablets and gaming devices ● Online Games ● Learning Platforms and Virtual Learning Environments ● Blogs and Wikis ● Podcasting ● Video sharing ● Downloading ● On demand TV and video, movies and radio / Smart TVs ● Virtual reality (VR) and augmented reality (AR)

1.3	Whilst exciting and beneficial both in and out of the context of education, much ICT, particularly web-based resources, are not consistently policed. All users need to be aware of the range of risks associated with the use of these Internet technologies and that some have minimum age requirements, usually 13 years. All web-based programmes suggested by the school to students will meet the required General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR), the school will maintain a record of such web based programmes
1.4	Both this policy and the Acceptable Use Agreement (for all staff, governors, regular visitors[for regulated activities] and students) are inclusive of both fixed and mobile internet; technologies provided by the school (such as PCs, laptops, mobile devices, webcams, whiteboards, voting systems, digital video equipment, etc); and technologies owned by students and staff, but brought onto school premises (such as laptops, mobile phones and other mobile devices)
1.5	Acts Relating to Monitoring of Staff eMail
1.5.1	Data Protection Act 2018 At a glance: Data protection is about ensuring people can trust you to use their data fairly and responsibly. As we collect information about individuals for reasons other than our own personal, family or household purposes, we need to comply. The UK data protection regime is set out in the DPA 2018, along with the GDPR (which also forms part of UK law). It takes a flexible, risk-based approach which puts the onus on the school to think about and justify how and why we use data. The ICO regulates data protection in the UK. They offer advice and guidance, promote good practice, carry out audits and advisory visits, consider complaints, monitor compliance and take enforcement action where appropriate For more information see: https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/guide-to-data-protection/guide-to-the-general-data-protection-regulation-gdpr/
1.5.2	Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 Regulating the interception of communications and making it an offence to intercept or monitor communications without the consent of the parties involved in the communication. The RIP was enacted to comply with the Human Rights Act 1998. The Telecommunications (Lawful Business Practice) (Interception of Communications) Regulations 2000, however, permit a degree of monitoring and record keeping, for example, to ensure communications are relevant to school activity or to investigate or detect unauthorised use of the network. Nevertheless, any monitoring is subject to informed consent, which means steps must have been taken to ensure that everyone who may use the system is informed that communications may be monitored. Covert monitoring without informing users that surveillance is taking place risks breaching data protection and privacy legislation. https://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2000/23/contents Human Rights Act 1998 https://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/1998/42/schedule/1
1.6	Other Acts Relating to eSafety
1.6.1	Racial and Religious Hatred Act 2006

		It is a criminal offence to threaten people because of their faith, or to stir up religious hatred by displaying, publishing or distributing written material which is threatening. Other laws already protect people from threats based on their race, nationality or ethnic background.
	1.6.2	Sexual Offences Act 2003 The new grooming offence is committed if you are over 18 and have communicated with a child under 16 at least twice (including by phone or using the Internet) it is an offence to meet them or travel to meet them anywhere in the world with the intention of committing a sexual offence. Causing a child under 16 to watch a sexual act is illegal, including looking at images such as videos, photos or webcams, for your own gratification. It is also an offence for a person in a position of trust to engage in sexual activity with any person under 18, with whom they are in a position of trust. Schools should already have a copy of "Children & Families: Safer from Sexual Crime" document as part of their child protection packs
	1.6.3	Communications Act 2003 (section 127) Sending by means of the Internet a message or other matter that is grossly offensive or of an indecent, obscene or menacing character; or sending a false message by means of or persistently making use of the Internet for the purpose of causing annoyance, inconvenience or needless anxiety is guilty of an offence liable, on conviction, to imprisonment. This wording is important because an offence is complete as soon as the message has been sent: there is no need to prove any intent or purpose
	1.6.4	The Computer Misuse Act 1990 (sections 1 – 3) Regardless of an individual's motivation, the Act makes it a criminal offence to gain: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • access to computer files or software without permission (for example using another person's password to access files) • unauthorised access, as above, in order to commit a further criminal act (such as fraud) • impair the operation of a computer or program UK citizens or residents may be extradited to another country if they are suspected of committing any of the above offences.
	1.6.5	Malicious Communications Act 1988 (section 1) This legislation makes it a criminal offence to send an electronic message (e-mail) that conveys indecent, grossly offensive, threatening material or information that is false; or is of an indecent or grossly offensive nature if the purpose was to cause a recipient to suffer distress or anxiety
	1.6.6	Copyright, Design and Patents Act 1988 Copyright is the right to prevent others from copying or using work without permission. Works such as text, music, sound, film and programs all qualify for copyright protection. The author of the work is usually the copyright owner, but if it was created during the course of employment it belongs to the employer. Copyright infringement is to copy all or a substantial part of anyone's work without obtaining the author's permission. Usually a licence associated with the work will allow a user to copy or use it for limited purposes. It is advisable always to read the terms of a licence before you copy or use someone else's material. It is also illegal to adapt or use software without a licence or in ways prohibited by the terms of the software licence.

	1.6.8	Protection of Children Act 1978 (Section 1) It is an offence to take, permit to be taken, make, possess, show, distribute or advertise indecent images of children in the United Kingdom. A child for these purposes is anyone under the age of 18. Viewing an indecent image of a child on your computer means that you have made a digital image. An image of a child also covers pseudo-photographs (digitally collated or otherwise). A person convicted of such an offence may face up to 10 years in prison.
	1.6.9	Obscene Publications Act 1959 and 1964 Publishing an “obscene” article is a criminal offence. Publishing includes electronic transmission.
	1.6.10	Protection from Harassment Act 1997 A person must not pursue a course of conduct, which amounts to harassment of another, and which the person knows or ought to know amounts to harassment of the other. A person whose course of conduct causes another to fear, on at least two occasions, that violence will be used against them is guilty of an offence if the person knows or ought to know that his course of conduct will cause the other to fear on each of those occasions.
	1.6.11	Counter-Terrorism and Security Act 2015 (Prevent) Anti-Radicalisation and Counter Extremism.

Educationally, e-mail can offer significant benefits including; direct written contact between schools on different projects, be they staff based or student based, within school or international. We recognise that students need to understand how to style an email in relation to their age and how to behave responsibly online
	3.5.2	The school gives all staff their own email account to use for all school business as a work-based tool. This is to protect staff, minimise the risk of receiving unsolicited or malicious emails and avoids the risk of personal profile information being revealed
	3.5.3	It is the responsibility of each account holder to keep their password secure. However, it is important to recognise that there are issues regarding the appropriateness of some content, contact, culture and commercialism. To this end, we encourage our students to think carefully about the way that information can be added and removed by all users, including themselves, from these sites.

3.18	Webcams and CCTV
	3.18.1	The school uses CCTV for security and safety. The only people with access to this are the site team and the Senior Leadership Team. Notification of CCTV use is displayed at the front of the school
	3.18.2	Webcams will not be used for broadcast on the internet without prior parental consent
	3.18.3	Misuse of any webcam by any member of the school community will result in sanctions (as listed under the 'inappropriate materials' section of this document)
	3.18.4	Consent is sought from parents/carers and staff on joining the school, in the same way as for all images

	3.19.2	All students are supervised by a member of staff when video conferencing.
	3.19.3	Conference supervisors need to be familiar with how to use the video conferencing equipment, particularly how to end a call if at any point any person taking part becomes unhappy with the content of the conference
	3.19.4	For further information and guidance relating to Video Conferencing, please see: https://www.ncsc.gov.uk/guidance/video-conferencing-services-using-them-securely
